Manchester Study Abroad

Holly Lyman
Before I moved to Manchester, I had no friends and no social life. I was unhappy with my situation. So I decided to take a chance and move across the ocean for six months. What followed changed my life forever.
Being from a small town, I never really experienced the city life. However, it was a culture shock that quickly turned into love.
I have always lived in the countryside with my family. I began doing things I never had before. Like going to concerts and events!
I even started learning about adult life. I learned to cook, how the transport system works, and even kept a plant!
I even was able to travel to many places. I learned about new cultures, food, visited many museums, and spent lots of time in nature.

I went to London, Ireland, Amsterdam, and Spain!
Amsterdam
Spain and London
I was taking classes I was passionate about and was taught by famous researchers in my field.
Case Study: Alileen Wuornos

- Wuornos was descriptions by her friends as sadística, cruel, and violent. She was known to have a violent nature.
- She lived in a rural area, with a farm.
- She was arrested for multiple murders, and all of them were women.
- She was diagnosed with antisocial personality disorder.
- Before her execution, she began having delusions of the government surround her and a need to kill again.
I had amazing experiences, made so many new friends, and learned so much about myself.
For the first time ever, I was genuinely happy with my life!
If you are ever considering doing a study abroad, just do it! It will forever change your life. You will make so many memories and live a life of freedom and fun. I thank everyone who made this possible. I now have made a home for myself in Manchester, England. I am in talks to get my Doctorate’s there as well! Just take the chance and go abroad. I promise you won’t regret it.
