Kohawks,

This is a reminder that any people who are in academic buildings (classrooms as well as hallways, bathrooms, elevators, stairs, etc) need to have their masks on and up 🙋. (The only exception is faculty alone in their offices.) If you don't know what's an academic building, it's where you have your classes. We have been doing really well on this for the most part in classes, but we continue to be a work in progress in the hallways, etc. If you need a break from your mask, step outside for a couple of minutes between classes even if they are in the same building.

I don't want to do it anymore than the rest of you, but we can do this. If we do it well for a couple more weeks, everyone stays safe. I also don't want to patrol the hallways telling people to put their masks up. There are way better ways for us to hang out together.

Masks up, Kohawks!
